Sprint MultiLine

Make personal devices work for business

You want your people to get maximum benefit from mobility, and welcoming employee-owned devices is a way to make that happen. But getting a "Bring Your Own Device" initiative off the ground can be hard. It's a difficult balancing act between what the business needs and what employees want.

Your business needs control over costs, corporate wireless policy, regulatory compliance and ultimately, the numbers themselves. And your employees want the freedom to use the devices they love to work, how, where and when they want.

So how do you achieve both of these goals? The answer is Sprint MultiLine.

What is MultiLine?

Sprint MultiLine is an enterprise-grade solution that gives your people a company-owned number for business voice and text – on their personal smartphones.

Win-win.

What you'll get

With MultiLine from Sprint, you get:

- A company-owned number: one that stays with your business, even if your employee doesn't

- Full work phone functionality: business work phone (dialer, contacts, voicemail, text) in a single, easy-to-use mobile app

- A carrier-agnostic solution: with carrier-grade voice and text for any device, regardless of network*

- Easy number provisioning: get complete control over company numbers, reclaiming and reassigning them in seconds

- Multi-number support: manage multiple numbers simultaneously on one device

- Stay compliant: keep on the right side of even the most demanding enterprise policies and industry regulations

- Centralized policy management: allow features like mobile recording to be turned on or off depending on regulatory requirements

- Mobile analytics: track and analyze business voice, text and data usage with a simple, cloud-based portal

- Seamless EMM integration: fast and easy integration with industry-leading EMM providers

Your employees get:

- Choice: the flexibility to use the devices they love, regardless of carrier

- Work-life separation: the ability to draw a line between business and personal communications on their preferred device.

- Flexible connectivity: cellular voice, data, VoIP and WiFi
